For the past ten months I have been lucky enough to have Nina Spencer visit my morning radio show every week for the Monday Motivational Moment. Leaning on Nina's extensive background in keynote and motivational speaking, we crafted a five minute feature that would help us break down some of the barriers that prevent us from being motivated and getting the most out of our work, our play and our life.

The feature could not have worked out any better. Nina is a consummate professional! Every week she was prepared with a topic, sometimes more than one, that was also tied into a personal story. This connection, joining real life moments with how they inspired her and could inspire others, created a strong personal attachment for our audience and for myself.

Nina Spencer engages people on a personal level, delivers strong content and is able to converse effortlessly on a myriad of topics. It has been my pleasure to work with her on building the Monday Motivational Moment and I know that it's a feature that would fit on any radio program.

Sincerely,
